GRAND JURORS AWAIT SCHEPPS

PRISONER BEING RUSHED HALF ACROSS CONTINENT TO TESTIFY.

BURNS AFTER "HIGH UPS"

Detective Gives Assurance of Startling Revelation—Whitman to Offer Big Reward.

By The Associated Press.

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—Sam Schepps, being rushed half way across the continent as a witness in the Rosenthal murder case, will be in jail in New York next week. Schepps, in charge of Assistant District Attorney Rubin and Detectives Thomas and Stewart, passed through St. Louis tonight en route from Hot Springs, where he was arrested last Saturday. The route of the Rubin party is kept secret, nor will Rubin reveal the approximate hour of arrival in New York. His only statement with reference to the party's arrival was that Schepps will be in jail soon.

GRAND JURY AWAITS SCHEPPS.

By The Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 15.—At the request of District Attorney Whitman, the grand jury today withheld the filing of its pending indictments against the murderers of Herman Rosenthal so as to hear the testimony of Sam Schepps, now on his way here from Hot Springs, Ark., in custody. While the county prosecutor believes the evidence thus far submitted to the jury is sufficient for indictments, he advised the jury today it would be best to hear the testimony of Schepps to further strengthen the case.

The district attorney expects that Schepps, who is said to have been a passenger in the assassination car, will add interesting details to the manner in which the murder was planned, which will strengthen the true bills contemplated against "Gyp the Blood" and "Dago Frank" Crofici, "Whitey" Lewis and "Lefty Louie," the alleged murder crew. Mr. Whitman believes Schepps will be able also to throw light upon the manner in which the alleged murderers were paid, thus corroborating the testimony of "Jack" Rose and "Bridge" Webber, charged with instigating the murder, was reportedly for payment.

Schepps Must Tell to Save Self.

Schepps is expected here Saturday and will go before the grand jury Tuesday as a material witness unless, in the meantime, he disappoints the expectations of the state by refusing to tell his story. In that event it was intimated tonight by the district attorney that Schepps would be indicted on the charge of complicity in the murder.

News that the grand jury had failed to hand down its expected indictments today gave rise to reports that there had been a clash among the jurors, growing out of the doubts expressed by several that the stories told by Rose, Webber and Vallon were to be credited.

"Any statement as to a clash in the grand jury room is absolutely unfounded," said Mr. Whitman tonight. "The grand jury and the district attorney are in entire accord, and there has been no suggestion of disagreement of any kind."

Offer Big Reward.

Impatient ever what he regards as the "peculiarly unprecedented failure of any city authority" to offer a reward for the capture of "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie," who tomorrow will have been at large one month since Rosenthal was slain, District Attorney Whitman declared tonight that he would offer next week a reward of $50,000 for the capture of the two men, dead or alive. Mr. Whitman said he expected to obtain the $50,000 from certain public subscriptions.

Burns on Trail.

W. J. Burns saw the district attorney today, but has thus far, it was learned, turned up no evidence of importance. He told the prosecutor, however, that he was on a trail which he predicted would lead to a high city official in connection with city police corruption. He also said that he expected to "get" three men known as the "disorderly house triumvirate," one a lawyer, one a police inspector and the other a hotel keeper. The detective also gave assurances to the district attorney, it was learned, that he would find "Gyp the Blood."

Disorderly Houses Raided.

Raids on alleged disorderly houses in the Tenderloin were made by the police tonight. The descent on the dozen and a half places by authority of warrants issued by a justice of special sessions court on evidence furnished by agents of the Society for the Prevention of Crime. Twenty-three prisoners were taken.

The raids, though conducted by the police, were made over the heads of Inspector Wm. J. Levy of the district and the precinct captains. District Attorney Whitman was in charge of the proceedings, and also an assistant district attorney, and Deputy Commissioners McKee and Dougherty.

PLAN FLANK MOVEMENT

Insurrectos to Enter Sonora Behind Madero Army—Terrazas Asked to Arrange Peace.

By The Associated Press.

Juarez, Mex., Aug. 15.—Preparations for the evacuation of Juarez were being made tonight and a train dispatched over the Mexican Central for the south. The last train is expected to leave at midnight, depicting Juarez of rebel soldiers. The citizens' vigilance committee is ready to take charge until the arrival of federal troops. The last train will carry Gen. Orozco and staff officers. It was said at Orozco's headquarters late tonight that an attempt would be made to enter Sonora by a flank movement behind the advancing federals, who are said to number 7000, and who today reached Guzman, only sixty miles southwest of Juarez. This daring movement on the part of Orozco is planned, it is asserted, to avert the danger of passing directly to the west, and yet to connect with the rebel leaders in Sonora and make for the west coast.

A band played a farewell concert in the plaza tonight as the rebel soldiers ran here and there packing their belongings. The evacuation was orderly. Fearing a repetition of looting, merchants closed their shops.

The rebels late tonight began burning what railway equipment they can not use in their movement to the south.

TERRAZAS AS PEACEMAKER.

By The Associated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 15.—Gen. Luis Terrazas, the wealthy land owner of Chihuahua, now in Los Angeles, has been asked by Rafael Hernandez, minister of Fomento, to use his influence in inducing Orozco to agree to some terms of peace which the Mexican government can accept, according to private dispatches received here today. Official confirmation of the report could not be secured.

TWENTY REBELS KILLED.

By The Associated Press.

Cuernavaca, Mex., Aug. 15.—Twenty of Zapata's men were killed yesterday in a fight with a detachment of federals commanded by Col. Jimenez Castro at Trienta, twenty-five miles south of here. The federals dispersed the rebels, according to reports. Two of the federal soldiers were wounded. A troop train from the scene, carrying 150 federal soldiers, doubled back to Cuernavaca, escorting twelve cars of ammunition and two rapid fire field guns intended by the government for the southern campaign against the rebels.

TOLUCA CONDITIONS BETTER.

By The Associated Press.

Toluca, Mex., Aug. 15.—Conditions south of here appear improved today, but residents of the nearby villages continue arriving in order to be under the immediate protection of Gen. Trujillo's force, the greater part of which is concentrated here. No encounters of consequence occurred today.

FEAR MEXICANS WILL INVADE AMERICAN SOIL

Additional Cavalry from Fort Sam
Houston Hurried to Columbus,
New Mexico.

By The Associated Press.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 15.—Fear of an invasion of American soil by Mexican rebel troops, it has been learned on reliable authority, was the reason for rushing here of additional cavalry from Fort Sam Houston. The point considered in danger is on the New Mexico boundary, just west of Columbus, N. M., opposite which town are more than 1000 rebels.

The reason for intrusion on American soil would be that federals are guarding the pass along the border to the west, and by cutting across a slice of New Mexico, a ranch and mining country, sparsely inhabited, the rebels could evade the federal forces and enter Sonora without danger of an engagement.

The three troops of cavalry due here tomorrow morning are expected to be rushed to Columbus, where four troops of the Third cavalry are stationed.

AMERICAN ENGINEER IS BEHEADED BY REBELS

Search Instituted by Henry Lane Wilson Brings to Light the Fate of Rowan Ayres.

By The Associated Press.

Mexico City, Aug. 15.—Behelmed by rebels, after they had carried him away as a captive from a point near Morelia, state of Michoan, is the fate of Rowan Ayres, an American civil engineer, according to official reports rendered today by the minister of war to the American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson.

Some days ago the capture of Ayres was reported to the embassy, and Mr. Wilson requested the war department to send out a searching party.

TAFT'S VETO HOLDS GOOD

HOUSE FAILS TO GO OVER HIS HEAD ON APPROPRIATION BILL.

MEASURE IS TRIMMED

Civil Service Tenure Provision Eliminated, But Commerce Court Feature Remains.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 15.—House democratic leaders failed today in their third successive effort to override the president when they sought to pass the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill over Mr. Taft's veto. The vote, 153 to 107, was 20 short of the required two-thirds of those voting. As a result the bill will be taken in hand tomorrow morning, shorn of the provision to which the president objected, fixing a seven-year tenure for government employees under the civil service, and send it on its way again.

Objectionable Feature Remains.

The other features to which the president objected, the abolition of the commerce court, will be left in the measure, but the temperature of the senate on this program is yet to be ascertained. It is acknowledged at both ends of the capitol that there is a strong sentiment against the continuance of the court and objection by the senate for this reason is not expected. So strong is the sentiment against the tribunal that leaders of both the senate and house believe if the president vetoes the bill as changed, it can be passed over his objection.

Democrats Vote With Republicans.

In the vote in the house there were many peculiar changes of front by democrats and insurgent republicans, the latter's votes having been the deciding factors in passing the wool and steel tariff revision bills over the president's veto. Eighteen democrats deserted their party, while 12 insurgent republicans voted with the majority. The democrats were:

Allen, Sharp, Whiteaker, Ohio; Brantley, Georgia; Curley, Murray, Peters and Thayer, Massachusetts; Donohue, Pennsylvania; Hamill, Kinkead, McCoy, New Jersey; Levy, Sulzer, Talcott, New York; Lobeck, Nebraska; L'Shaughnessy, Rhode Island; Reilly, Connecticut.

Would Eliminate Incompetents.

Representative Johnson, a member of the appropriations committee, led the fight to pass the bill over the president's veto. He laid stress on the necessity for engraving the seven years' tenure reform in the civil service, in order, as he contended, to increase the efficiency of the government service. No competent clerks would suffer in any way, he insisted, but it would give heads of departments power and opportunity to drop incompetents from the pay roll.

Cannon Twits Democrats.

Speaking for the government clerk, former Speaker Cannon twitted the democrats with attempting a bogus reform on defenseless employees in order to strengthen their political fences. He charged them with cowardice for such action. "I am subject to the same cowardice," Mr. Cannon admitted. "And I am criticizing myself as much as any other member. There have been times when I was tempted to sing that old hymn, not 'Onward Christian Soldiers,' but 'Renew My Courage, Oh, Lord.'"

Minority Leader Mann defended the commerce court and termed as "ridiculous" the action of one congress creating such a tribunal only to knock it down at a succeeding congress before the system had been tried out. Representative Fitzgerald of New York replied that the court was "the single pet idea of the chief executive of the United States." He added that the president's criticism of the house for voting general legislation on an appropriation bill "came close to impertinence."

Taft Beats 'Em All.

After the reading of the veto, Representative Stephens of Nebraska demanded a resolution for the passage of any vetoed measure by a majority vote. A two-thirds vote of both houses is now required. Mr. Stephens declared Mr. Taft had used the veto power more than it had been used in the first half century of the nation's history. He added that the president of France had no veto power and that while the king of England enjoyed the privilege he "had not dared to use it" for 226 years.

Veto Extends Congress Session.

The president's veto is certain to extend the session of congress. Some members of the house believe that the bill can be passed over his disapproval as were the wool and steel tariff bills. None of the leaders, however, think that would be possible in the senate. One effect of Taft's veto of the bill was to hold up his own pay, that of every member of congress, every federal judge and every employee of the United States courts. Some leaders

DARROW MOVES JURY TO TEARS

PAINTS HIMSELF AS LIFELONG FRIEND OF POOR AND OPPRESSED.

FREDERICKS FLAYS HIM

Holds Defendant Up as Enemy of Society—Uses Cold Evidence Instead of Eloquence.

By The Associated Press.

Los Angeles, Aug. 15.—Two word-portraits of Clarence S. Darrow, wholly different, were held before the jury in the Darrow bribery trial today. The first, by Darrow himself at the close of a remarkable plea in his own behalf, painted him as the life-long friend of the poor and oppressed, ready to sacrifice himself to better their condition. The other, drawn at the beginning of the final argument by District Attorney John D. Fredericks, presented Darrow as an enemy of society, "a cunning, heartless and shedding mauling tears of sympathy for murderers and dynamiters."

The prosecutor will consume all of tomorrow in concluding. Hundreds thronged the court room at the afternoon session to hear Fredericks make the closing argument for the prosecution in the trial which began its fourth month today. He said he would not attempt to compete in oratory with Darrow, whose persuasive eloquence and pathetic pleas had caused jury, court officials and spectators to weep.

"You have listened," said Fredericks to one of the most marvelous addresses or orations ever delivered in any court room when you heard Mr. Darrow. But that only reflects upon the ability of the man and his mighty little to do with his guilt or innocence. His story teaches us that the most brainy men have gone wrong. This defendant's unfortunate predicament is the result of those peculiar philosophical views which go to make up his very nature. His insidious hand entered into bribery from the very beginning of the McNamara case; bribery is in his very nature. He had the idea that there was no integrity that could not be bought."

Fredericks declared to one but Darrow could have provided the bribe money. Scouting the theory that the Times dynamiters did not intend to do murder, he quoted from a statement said to have been made by J. B. McNamara, which he said he did not kill Harry Chandler, the general manager of the Times.

Referring to John R. Harrington, the prosecutor said the actions of Darrow's former employe might have been ethical but they savored of honesty.

"I believe Harrington's duty to the state," he said, "to have been fully as great as the concealment of the criminal acts of his friends." Fredericks confined himself principally to the evidences, many extracts of which he read to the jury. The McNamara case figured strongly in the closing argument of Mr. Darrow.

"I know," he said, "I could have tried the case and a large number of people of America would have believed honestly, if those men had been hanged, that they were guiltless. And I could have saved myself had I done it, and I could have made money. I know if you had hanged those men and other men, you would not have changed the opinion of hardly a man in America, except to settle in the hearts of a great mass of men a hatred so deep, so profound, that it would never die away."

"So it would have ended and what could have been the result? Men would have taken their lives in their hands to avenge a wrong to their class."

"And I took the responsibility, gentlemen. Maybe I did wrong. I took the matter and was disposed of, and the question set at rest. Here and there I got praise for what was called a heroic act, although I did not deserve the praise, I followed the law of my being—that is all. But where I got one word of praise, I got a thousand words of blame and I stood under that for a year."

"This trial has helped to clear it up. It will be cleared up, if not in time for me to profit by it, in time for my descendants to know it. Sometime we will know the truth, but I have gone on my way as I always have gone, regardless of this, without explanations, without begging, without asking anything of anyone and I will go on that way to the end."

"I know the crowds and in a way, I love them; in a way I despise them. I know the unreasonable, unthinking mass. I have been their idol and I

STRAY BULLET HITS A CHILD

PISTOL EMPLOYED ON MCGREGOR STREET—GIRL IS RUSHED TO HOSPITAL.

BAKER GETS FOUR WOUNDS

Sam Neely Surrenders, Brought to Waco—Wife Has Asked for Divorce.

Thirteen-year-old Ollie Gardner, daughter of O. B. Gardner, a restaurant keeper at McGregor, may pay toll with her life as a result of a shooting affray at McGregor last night at 8:30 o'clock, when Sam Neely, a billiard room owner, emptied a pistol on Main street. E. D. Epperson, a baker, sustained four wounds. One stray bullet pierced the girl's abdomen and she was rushed to a hospital at Temple. Her condition is serious.

Four bullets struck Epperson, who is 23 years old and unmarried, but he is not seriously wounded. Two bullets struck him in the right arm, another pierced his left thigh and a fourth went through his left foot. The first bullet caught him in the arm and he whirled and fell to the sidewalk. He was looking his bakery for the night when the first shot was fired, it is said. The girl was standing in front of her father's restaurant about 100 feet away from Neely, when she was wounded. She fell instantly.

Neely Surrenders.

Neely walked off before the smoke had cleared, going to meet City Marshal D. McMahon and surrender.

"What would you do if a man broke into your family?" Neely asked the officer, according to a statement made by McMahon over the telephone last night.

Neely was turned over to the custody of Constable Jim Williams and was brought to Waco before daylight this morning. With Neely, the officers left McGregor at 9 o'clock for Waco in an automobile, the route including Moody, where Neely's aged father was picked up.

Epperson is the owner of a bakery shop and was looking the front door for the night when Neely came for him. The first bullet knocked him down, but he arose and started to run across the street, it is said. Neely switched his aim and it was then that a stray bullet wounded the little Gardner girl.

The shooting took place at 8:30 o'clock last night. Neely's wife was almost prostrated by the affair, it was reported from McGregor.

Wife Wants Divorce.

Neely is about 49 years of age, and is the father of six children ranging in age from 2 to 14 years. Last Friday his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Neely, appeared in district court in Waco with an application for a divorce, for the custody of the six children and for a temporary injunction to prevent Neely from disposing of any of their community property. The application was granted, and Deputy Sheriff Phil Robbs went to McGregor to serve papers on the husband.

TEXANS DO HONOR TO MEMORY OF WAR HERO

MONUMENT TO COL. WM. P. ROGERS IS UNVEILED AT COR-INTH, MISSISSIPPI.

By The Associated Press.

Corinth, Miss., Aug. 15.—A monument to commemorate the bravery of Col. Wm. P. Rogers of the Second Texas Infantry was unveiled here today by a committee of citizens of Victoria, Texas, assisted by the Corinth United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Col. Rogers was killed while leading a charge at Fort Robinson, at the battle of Corinth, Oct. 4, 1862. He was buried with military honors by Federal Gen. Rosecrans, who said: "Rogers was one of the bravest men who ever led a charge."

Col. Rogers was a native of Alabama, and during the Mexican war he was captain of a Mississippi company under Col. Jefferson Davis. He was first to mount the walls of Monterey. After the war he was United States consul to Mexico. He signed the ordinance of secession in Texas, February, 1861.

WILSON DENOUNCES TARIFF AS OPERATING AGAINST MASSES

Presidential Candidate Opens Campaign With Speech at Gathering of Farmers, a People
Who "Feed the World While Congress Feeds the Trusts."

WANTS PARCELS POST AND MERCHANT MARINE PREDICTS DAWN OF NEW ERA ON NOVEMBER 5

By The Associated Press.

Gloucester, N. J., Aug. 15.—Under the glare of a hot sun, thousands of farmers massed about Governor Woodrow Wilson here today and heard him make his first campaign speech since he was officially notified a week ago of his nomination to the presidency.

The governor spoke extemporaneously at Washington Park, where the farmers of New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania were participating in a celebration. The candidate dwelt mostly on the protective tariff, which he called the "restrictive tariff," attacked Senator Aldrich and his tariff-making associates, pointed out the benefits of a merchant marine in connection with the Panama Canal and blamed the influence of express companies in handling parcels post legislation.

The governor frequently was interrupted by applause and cheers. When he finished speaking many of the farmers wanted to shake hands. The governor was at the park about two hours, returning to Seagirt early tonight.

Governor Wilson said in part:

"I am interested in politics, not as a search for office, but as a great contest devoted to something very definite and practical indeed. Politics ought not to be considered as a mere occasion for oratory. Politics ought to be considered as a branch of the national business and a man who talks politics ought to tell his fellow citizens very distinctly what he thinks about their affairs and what his own attitude towards them is."

Tariff Unjust to Farmers.

"Here we are at a farmer's picnic and on this day I suppose we might say that the farmers occupy the center of the stage. When did the farmers ever occupy the center of the stage in our politics? I don't remember any time. I have seen the interests of a great many classes specially regarded in legislation, but I must frankly say that I have seldom seen the interests of the farmer regarded in legislation. And one of the greatest impositions upon the farmer of this country that has ever been devised is the present tariff legislation of the United States. Farmers Feed World; Congress Feeds Trusts."

"I have not heard of farmers waiting for a hearing before the committee of ways and means of the house and the finance committee of the senate in order to take part in determining what the tariff schedules should be. While you were feeding the world, congress was feeding the trusts. Nobody doubts what the process of tariff legislation has been, because everybody who has been curious enough to inquire knows what the process of tariff legislation has been."

"I would be ashamed of myself if I tried to stir up any feeling on the part of any class against any other class. I wish to disavow any intention of suggesting to the farmer that he go in and do somebody up. That is not the point. All that I am modestly suggesting to you is that you break into your own house and live there. And I want you to examine very critically the character of the tenants who have been occupying it. It is a very big house and very few people have been living in it and the rent has been demanded of you and not of them. You have paid the money which enabled them to live in your own house and dominate your own premises."

Says Tariff Aids Select Few.

"I regard this campaign as I regarded every campaign in which people have taken part since the world began, as simply a continued struggle to see to it that the people were taken care of by their own government. And my indictment against the tariff is that it represents special partnerships and does not represent the general interests. It is a long time since tariffs were made by men who even supposed they were seeking to serve the general interests because tariffs are not made by the general body of members of either house of congress. They have in the past been made by very small groups of individuals in certain committees of those houses who even refused information to their fellow members as to the basis upon which they had acted in framing the schedules."

Aldrich Has Large Weather Eye.

"One of the gentlemen who has been most conspicuously connected with this thing has in recent years prudently withdrawn from public life. I mean Mr. Aldrich. I at least give Mr. Aldrich the credit of having had a large weather eye. He saw that weather was changing in Rhode Island, as well as in the rest of the union, and men who had long known that he was imposing upon them felt that the limit had been reached and they were not going to be imposed upon any longer. They saw that he was not even doing what he pretended to do, namely to serve the special interests of Rhode Island, because he was serving only some of the special interests of Rhode Island."

Farmer the Loser.

"Tariff measures are not measures for the merchant merely and the manufacturer. The farmer pays just as big a proportion of the tariff duty as anybody else. Indeed, sometimes when we are challenged to say who the consumer is, as contrasted with the producer, so far as the tariff is concerned, I am tempted to answer 'the farmer,' because he does not produce any of the things that get any material benefit from the tariff and he consumes all of the things which are taxed under the tariff system."

Benefits from Panama Canal.

The governor explained the benefits that might accrue to the farmer from the Panama canal if the merchant marine were restored. He continued:

"One of the great objects in cutting that great ditch across the Isthmus of Panama is to allow farmers who are near the Atlantic to ship to the Pacific coast by way of the Atlantic ports. And one of the bills pending just passed by congress provides for free tolls for American ships through that canal and prohibits any ship from passing through that canal which is owned by any American railway company. You see the object of that? We don't want the railways to compete with themselves because we understand that kind of competition. We want the water carriage to compete with the land carriage, so as to be perfectly sure that you are going to get better rates around by the canal than you would across the continent."

Advocates Parcels Post.

"Then there is another thing in which you ought to be deeply interested, which is in the program of the great party I belong to. That is the parcels post. This is the only civilized country in the world where the government does not see to it that rates established by the government enable men to ship their goods, large and small, as they please from one end of the continent to the other. We have no parcels post because—may I conjecture the reason?—because there are certain express companies which object."

"Now, I move that the objection of all private enterprises be overruled. I move that we establish a parliamentary procedure by which they will not even be considered, not in order that men who have made legitimate investments of capital may not have their proper return for it. The trouble with the business of the United States under the tariff is that men think they cannot make money without the assistance of the government. And as long as you allow them to think that, then every mother's son of us is tied to the apron strings of the old grandmother sitting in the capitol at Washington."

"But I want, at every turn of every argument that I make of this nature, to say that the legitimate business enterprises of this country have nothing to fear provided they will stand on their own bottoms, but that they have everything to fear if everything they have under them is the prop of a tax which everybody is obliged to pay in order that they may be able to conduct their business and I believe that that is the just people of the government."

Placing Education Near Farmer.

"There is another matter in which I am deeply interested. There are only three lines devoted to it in the democratic platform, but there are no lines devoted to it in the republican platform, and there are so many lines in the 'bull moose' platform that I haven't found it yet. But in the democratic platform there are three lines in which the party declares it to be its duty to devote such funds of the national government as it may constitutionally devote to such purposes as the promotion of industrial, agricultural and vocational education."

The governor explained that the platform in this connection meant a system of university extension to the farmer. He referred to a pending bill to promote agricultural development in that way.

"You see," he remarked, "the men in the house are not waiting until you elect national officers on their

Argues for Merchant Marine.

"If prosperity is not to be checked in this country we must broaden our borders and make conquests of the markets of the world. That is the reason that America is so deeply interested in the question of which I already have spoken, the merchant marine, and that is also the reason why America is so much interested in breaking down that dam against which all the tides of our prosperity have banked up, that great dam that runs around all our coasts and which we call the protective tariff. I would prefer to call it the tariff which holds us back. I should prefer to call it the tariff that chokes us in, the tariff that smothers us, because the great unmatched energy of America is now waiting for a field greater than America itself in which to prove that Americans can take care of themselves.

Sees Better Times Ahead.

"Now we have come entirely to the consciousness of the new day. There is not going to be any more nightmares. It is going to be daylight all the time and somebody is going to be on the lookout all the time to see that this thing does not happen again and what we are trying for in this campaign is merely this:

"Who of you, how many of you,
which of you have enlisted for the night? I believe that it is going to be one of these general recruitments when you don't need to have recruiting officers.

"I believe that there is going to be a great handsome, peaceful, hopeful revolution on the fifth day of November, 1912, and after that revolution has been accomplished men will go about their business saying: 'What was it that we feared? We feared chains and we have won liberty. We feared to touch anything for fear we should mar it, and now everything wears the bright face of prosperity and we know that the right is also the profitable thing and that nobody can serve a nation without also serving himself.'"

He at once went into conference with City Health Officer Truheart and will meet other health officers during the day. The campaign under Dr. Currie's direction will continue for some time.

BOLD WARNING IS ISSUED

State Department Will Not Tolerate Lawlessness and Damage to American Property.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The collector Justin, the state department has learned, arrived at Corinto today with 350 marines under command of Major Smedley Butler, who reported at once to Capt. Terhune, commanding the gunboat Annapolis, who has been given full authority to deal with the military situation in Nicaragua as it affects American interests. It is believed this marine force was at once dispatched to Managua, a six hour railroad run from Corinto.

How this force will be used depends entirely upon the will of American Minister Weitzel. He has already protested to the rebels against bombarding Managua, filled as it is with women and children and non-combatants. If his force is not sufficient to stop the bombardment, officials feel assured that he will hold the city until reinforcements from Panama or until blue-jackets of the Denver, now on route to Corinto, can be placed at his disposal.

Bold Warning.

The state department has let it be understood that it does not propose to tolerate lawless shelling and killing of helpless women and children and endangering American lives and seizing and destroying American property. The officials are quite emphatic in pointing out that Gen. Mena, the head of the revolution, has completely alienated the sympathies of this government by his conduct of the rebellion.

Belated cablegrams received at the state department from American Minister Weitzel give a vivid picture of the conflict at Managua, which began last Sunday morning when Gen. Zeledon, in command of the rebels, opened fire on the city from the vicinity of Momotombo.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon insurgent officers, Gen. Murillo and Col. Rostran, attacked the pen with infantry and rapid fire guns in an attempt to liberate the prisoners, and at 8 o'clock 100 men, under cover of artillery fire, attempted to enter the city from the lake, but were repulsed and 25 of them captured. Throughout the night firing continued at intervals. Of the rebels, Zeledon had 600, Thomas 600 and Murillo 500, while the government forces under Gen. Emiliano Chamorro were about 3500. The government's firing line, under command of Gen. Prutos Belanco, faced Zeledon's division and received the brunt of the firing.

At 6 o'clock Monday morning Zeledon renewed the attack, firing shell and solid shot from a three-inch rifle into the city at the rate of twenty an hour, directed principally toward the president's palace.

TAFT'S VETO

have proposed a plan to extend all of last year's appropriation until December 1.

Condemns Congress' Policy.

Mr. Taft's message was strong in its condemnation of the way congress had attached special legislation to the annual appropriation bill. The president wrote that he approved any system of promoting efficiency in the civil service, and favored a civil service pension bill, but he could not approve any legislation to turn out of office employees who had given their best years to the government.

The president defended the commerce court vigorously and wrote that opposition to it came from those who had not been in sympathy with its decisions.

Disavows Financial Responsibility.

The president wrote in part:

"When it is thought wise by congress to include in general supply bills important substantive legislation and the executive cannot approve such legislation, it is his constitutional duty to return the bill with his objections, and the responsibility for delay in the appropriation of the necessary expenses to run the government cannot rest upon the executive, but must be put where it belongs—upon the majority in each house of congress that has departed from the ordinary course and united with an appropriation amendments to the substantive law. The importance and absolute necessity of furnishing funds to maintain and operate the government cannot be used by the congress to force upon the executive acquiescence in permanent legislation which he cannot conscientiously approve.

"I am utterly opposed to the abolition of a court because its decisions may not always meet the approval of the legislature. It is introducing a recall of the judiciary which in its way is quite as objectionable as the ordinary popular method proposed."

FINAL ACTION ON PANAMA BILL TODAY

FIGHT IS ANTICIPATED ON PRO-VISION FOR FREE TOLLS TO COASTWISE VESSELS.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The Panama Canal bill agreed to yesterday by the conferees of the house and senate, will be pushed for final action in both bodies tomorrow. Opposition is expected from those who oppose free tolls to coastwise ships and the railroad and anti-trust sections.

Senator Bristow, progressive, was the only republican of the two bodies who signed the conference agreement. He will join with Senator Simmons, democrat, in urging approval of the agreement. Senator Brandagee, who declined to approve the completed bill in conference, is expected to lead the fight against the agreement.

It is understood that Senator Bristow has made it clear to republicans in the senate that he will object to any temporary resolution that would carry final approval of the bill over until December. One plan suggested was to give President Taft authority to begin an organization of the canal forces, leaving the general subjects of tolls and railroad control of steamship lines to be settled at the next session.

Representative Adamson, who framed the original canal bill, is expected to have the support of the democratic forces in the house in approving the conference agreement. Representative Stevens, the republican house member of the house committee, declined to sign the report.

ADULTERATED MILK DEALERS MUST PAY

FINES ASSESSED IN JUSTICE
COURTS TO BE COLLECTED FROM WACO DISPENSERS.

Seven Waco dairymen and restaurant keepers must pay fines of $25 each on charges of "selling adulterated milk as a result of the dismissal of their appeals from the county court docket Thursday. County Attorney Pat Neff ordered the appeals dismissed because of faulty bonds.

The dairymen and restaurant men were fined $25 each in the justice courts and appealed their cases. That was three months ago, after the city and county health authorities had gotten behind them with energy and testers to see whether or not the public was being sold milk or water. When this investigation began, a number of restaurant men and dairymen hastened into court and pleaded guilty to the charges.

Dr. J. S. Abbott, the state pure food commissioner, was responsible for this crusade against such dealers in Waco.

By order of the court yesterday the officers are instructed to collect the fines from the indicted dealers.

A few days ago the dairymen doing business in Waco announced a rise of ten cents a gallon in milk. One milkman said the high price of feed was the cause of the advance in prices.

Lewis, the negro who was lynched, was accused of killing an officer, but it developed that the mob had seized the wrong negro. Several members of the mob were indicted.

CHECKS READY TO MAIL

Many Agencies Eliminated. Forcing 250 Government Clerks Out of Their Jobs.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Within the next week the thousands of veterans who have received no pensions since the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, will get their government warrants. Both house and senate today agreed to the pensions bill, which has been thrown like a shuttle between the two houses since last February. The present bill carries $160,000,000. The president will sign the bill tomorrow and by Saturday the pension bureau will mail out checks.

Provisions placed in the pension bill as originally passed by the house abolishing the 18 pension agencies throughout the country caused the delay. The senate objected to eliminating the agencies and a deadlock ensued. The senate finally agreed to a provision which will eliminate the agencies January 31, 1913.

The elimination of the agencies will force some 250 clerks to either move to Washington or leave the service.

Checks for all the back pensions are ready for mailing at the various agencies. As soon as President Taft signs the bill all agencies will be notified by telegraph to release the checks. Officials estimate that every pensioner in the United States ought to have a check by next Tuesday at the latest. Delay in passing the bill caused much distress among the nation's dependents. Many veterans, having no other support have been obliged to go to charitable institutions.

The Katy has announced that it will run a special from Fort Worth, putting on a rate of $1.25. The train will haul close onto 700 fans. While the Cotton Belt has not arranged to run a special, it has announced reduced rates, which will prove an inducement to many of the baseball enthusiasts along its lines.

NEGRO SHOT THROUGH HEAD AT KATY CAMP

ED RAMBLE, WHO FIRED FATAL SHOT, CLAIMS HE WAS AFTER ANOTHER BLACK.

A pistol bullet intended for another negro crashed through Bill Smith's head in a row at the Katy construction camp in East Waco last night. Smith will likely die. While officers were searching for him, Ed Ramble walked to the county jail and surrendered to Jailer Kennedy. He admitted doing the shooting, but said Smith was one of his best friends and he was really shooting at another negro.

Deputies Hobbs and Smith investigated the case. Dr. W. L. Crosthwait, who administered medical aid to the wounded negro, entertains little hope for his recovery. The bullet entered Smith's face under the eye and went out at the back of the head, passing below the brain and shattering several bones.

Ramble told Jailer Kennedy the negro he aimed at had been "bothering" him and threatening to give him trouble for several days. He used a 45 caliber Colt's.

PRETTY PAPER PARTY FOR LITTLE GIRLS

In planning for her birthday party, little six-year-old Miss Mabel Ockander requested her little guests to appear in paper frocks, designed to be a flower. The assembly was outdoors in the early evening hours. An arbor of cedar was improvised, and through this peered the electric bulbs encased by colored shades. These with the little figures in color fitting about gave a beauty spot, indeed, to the Lars Ockander lawn. The favors were offered by Miss Mabel in the form of a grab basket. Punch, cream and cake catered to the sweet tooth. There was also the fun of pinning on the donkey tail blindfolded, for which Frances Compton received the prize. Only little girls enjoyed this pleasure, except the diminutive lords of the household, Edwin and Lars Ockander, Jr. The other guests were: Ida May Beckley, Mamie Garland, Mildred Whitley, Hazel Rowell, Cecil Rowell, Sybil Allen, Floy Allen, Willie May Kendall, Clemence Vivett, Florence Hamilton, Margaret Bolton, Pauline Pipkin, Louise Lancaster, Marie Peyton, Anna Louise Peyton, Rillemay Craddock, Katy Shepherd, Rosalie Jameson, Mary Crow, Dorothy Rosenblatt, Helen Mayfield, Dorothy Hancock, Rhea Harner of California.

THURSDAY A CHURCH FEAST OF INTEREST TO ARTISTS

Thursday was truly the feast day for the Catholics of this city, since the church celebrated the feast of its patron saint, the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin. The day was observed as one of the most significant in the calendar of Catholic observance. It recalled to the writer her day in Venice when she participated in this great event. The Venetians make the Assumption of the Virgin the most joyful of the year except the day of Christmas. In Venice one is awakened by the chime of bells sending their call across the lazy lapping canals scarce awake from their night slumber. Men, women and children, young and old, rich and poor, pass to early celebration of mass. The churches are thronged all through the day. There is mass continuously, not only in the same church, but at the several side altars of the same church. The choir chant, the faithful take their robes to be blessed and their sick and dead to receive the holy rites which the church prescribes. Blessed candles, rosaries, prayer books and other ritual necessities are sold at the entrance. The collection is by no means forgotten. All through the service the priests pass the long handle reception for coin. It is all confusion and anything but American consecration to a church silence. Beggarly swarm at the doors, hoping to receive an increased bounty because of the general good will on the feast of the mother of Christ.

Merry-Making Follows.

The afternoon brings an entire change of scene and thought. It is the merry-making of a pleasure-loving people. The piazzas are a mass of moving humanity and the canals are a procession of the rich Venetians out in their gondolas. The bands play everywhere. The cafes do a whirlwind business. All is a glad holiday. But the concentration of that holiday is on the piazza of Saint Mark's. Here the life of Venice is centered. Here is the famous cafe mentioned so prominently by Howells in his Venetian Days. Here is where the pigeons swarm, the peculiar sight of Venice. The children feed the tame little birds who know only too well what the penny sack has inside. The shops barter, and it is truly Venetian life, a most interesting experience to the American tourist. At night the Grand Canal is ablaze with light. The gayly decked gondolas are out with their concert singers. Hundreds of gondolas pause to hear some of the Italian operas delightfully rendered by these itinerant musicians. Life on the Grand Canal is an experience which no one should omit in a European tour.

The Assumption Feast.

The Assumption of the Virgin is one of the last incidents in her life to be recognized. The scenes attending this event were first told in an old Greek legend and held to be from the record of John the Evangelist. It was not incorporated into the church celebration until the tenth century. The tradition, however, is very ancient. After the crucifixion of Christ Mary spent her time in the house of John, suffering and death. Her most frequent visits were made to the tomb where he was laid. One day she went abundantly and there at once appeared an angel who saluted her, presented her with a palm from Paradise, and told her that she should bear it within three days into Paradise. The angel left. The pains shed leaves of light and sparkled as a star. Mary returned home and, when evening came, prepared for bed. Miraculously, the apostles all found themselves before her door. Mary prayed and lay down to die. The apostles stood beside her. The whole house was illumined with angel light and filled with delicious perfume. Jesus Himself appeared with all the company of angels and archangels and patriarchs and prophets, all singing hymns of joy. Jesus told his mother to arise, go with him and receive the crown awaiting her in Paradise. The soul of Mary left her body, and was received into the arms of her Son, and together they ascended into Heaven. As she approached Heaven's gates the angels sang "She is fairer than all the daughters of Jerusalem." But this was only the soul. The body remained on earth. The virgins prepared it for burial while it emitted a glow of light to clothe the sacred and chaste limbs from human eye. The apostles accompanied it to the tomb. On the third day Jesus said to the body, "Rise, my undefiled dove, for thou shalt not remain in the darkness of the grave to see corruption." Immediately the soul rejoined the body and she arose from the tomb and ascended into Heaven, welcomed by troops of angels blowing their silver trumpets and touching their golden lutes. Thus was the Assumption.

Artists Treat Subject.

The artists have all been pleased to picture the assumption on their canvases. But none has made the great portrayal as did Titian. His Assumption of the Virgin is now classed as one of the Twelve Great World Pictures. It hangs in the Academy of Venice, one of the most prized art treasures, not only of this city, but of all the world. Many prefer the picture of the Virgin disconnected with the entire canvases. This is because of the glorious expression on her face as she rises to Paradise. The canvases glow with the Venetian color, red being more prominent. The Virgin, who is generally associated with blue and white, wears a gorgeous red robe. The picture has named the place in which it hangs as the Hall of the Assumption. The brothers for whom it was painted were somewhat scandalized by the bold beauty and life, used as they were to all the conventionalities of art. But they became reconciled to this intense life and beauty. The figure of the Virgin appears caught up in the sky, directed by the Father above, who is waiting to place the crown upon her head. Charming groups of boy angels surround her, while below the amazed apostles, who watch her in her upward flight, exhibit each his individual emotion and longing according to his temperament. A wondrous ray of glory bursts from the countenance of the Virgin. The Father has His arms extended in welcome. The apostles are bereft by her absence. The Virgin seems to be impelled with rapidity as shown by the arrangement of her drapery. One inadmissible touch of Titian is to have her feet bare. The Virgins arms are outspread, her face is in rapture. She is worshipped by both angels above and apostles beneath.

The artists generally show her leaving a flower-lined tomb, with the apostles just discovering her absence. But Titian departs, and it is his original treatment, the vigor of his color in the face, and the glory of his color which has come to make this the one in Twelve Great Pictures of the World.

MRS. MORROW HAS BIRTHDAY FRIENDS TAKE DINNER

Thursday was the sixty-seventh birthday of Mrs. Morrow, who is the guest of her son, W. A. Morrow. The granddaughter, Mrs. Norman Smith, who is the present matron of the Morrow home, provided the birthday cake and the dainties of a birthday dinner. Friends were added to the family circle. ## Society Notes.

Since the suggestion for a living chess game as a Cotton Palace attraction, the idea is advanced that it might be made a grand outdoor spectacle.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith in their passage from the Kerrville Chautauqua had the pleasing experience of meeting a former Wacoan, Professor Thrash, who has a home in San Antonio and drives a handsome car. So Mr. and Mrs. Smith saw the city and its suburban missions under delightful conditions.

They say the one-piece suit is regaining favor as a walking costume. Is this hard on the Europeans or to the credit of the Americans? It is the statement that there was not one single sanitary bathroom or lavatory in Europe until the American girls who married titles introduced them.

If any of the Waco women feel that their young hopes are prodigies in embryo, listen to this: A little girl of Pittsburg was a student of poetry and typewriting at 3, published a book of verse at 7, and at the age of 9 was speaking five languages.

MRS. LEOLA JONES, UNRUFFLED.
RESTS IN THE JAIL AT NASHVILLE.

JEALOUSY IS RESPONSIBLE

Bullet Pierced the Heart of Mrs. Alva Cave, Beautiful Young Widow, Thirty Years Old.

By The Associated Press.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 15.—A day in custody did not operate to unseat the lips of Mrs. Leola Hooper Jones, age 24, who last night shot and almost instantly killed Mrs. Alva Cave, age 30, widow of Steve Cave, a son of the venerable and widely beloved Rev. R. Lin Cave of Nashville, who is the chaplain-general of the United Confederate Veterans.

Mrs. Jones appeared in the city court this afternoon, accompanied by her father and by her attorney, and formally waived examination and was bound over to the criminal court on a charge of murder. Justice Levine was on the city bench, acting temporarily for Judge Killen, and would not undertake the responsibility of fixing bond, so Mrs. Jones was sent to jail. However, it is expected that bond will be fixed by tomorrow morning.

In court Mrs. Jones appeared cool and collected. She wore a white dress, the same she had on when arrested last night while on her way to the police station to surrender.

The tragedy occurred last night, Mrs. Jones going to the home of Mrs. Cave and shooting her twice, once bullet entering the heart. The wounded woman died in a few minutes. Mrs. Jones was arrested enroute to the police station to surrender.

Jealousy is said to have been the cause of the tragedy. Mrs. Jones some time since filed suit for absolute divorce and is said to have been living apart from her husband.

Mrs. Cave's husband died about two years ago and at the time of the shooting she and her two children, a girl of five and a boy of two, were making their home with her mother, Mrs. Sophia Leinhos. Mrs. Cave was noted for her beauty.

Other members of the family were in the rear of the house when the tragedy occurred, the little boy having climbed down from his mother's lap just as Mrs. Jones entered the gate.

Mrs. Jones heard at the police station that her aim had been fatal. She raised her head and asked:

"Is she dead?"

When told that Mrs. Cave was dead, a slight frown crossed her face. She was perfectly cool as she answered questions.

THE ELECTION LAW.

Senator McNeal, in his paper, the Dallas Democrat, notes that the Terrell election law is burdened with features that interfere with a reasonably prompt casting up of the result of primary elections, and in suggesting amendments calculated to remedy defects complained of, says:

"Under the present basis (for the formation of election precincts) an election precinct might poll fifty votes at the general election next November, while in the primary election just passed ten times that number may have been polled. The primary election is really the more important of the two; yet it requires four or five days to learn how it went in the general election. Change the basis for precinct formation to 150 poll tax payments and the result of the more important election of the two will be known before dark of primary election day.

"The primary election is really the more important of the two." That expression which is undoubtedly true, suggests the inquiry, Why a general election at all?

The theory of the general election is that of giving the electorate in the aggregate a chance to choose between the nominees of different parties after having given those parties an individual chance to select their nominees. But could not all of this be accomplished at one operation and the expense of a general election avoided?

It might be objected that if the primary and the general election were combined a minority party could, by putting out but one candidate for each office, capture the election in cases where there would be two or three candidates representing the majority party. Such a contingency could be guarded against, however, by providing that the entire vote cast by any party should be credited to the one of its candidates receiving the most votes. Thus in case there should be two Democrats and one Republican running for governor the Republican would have to get more votes than the two Democrats could together muster to be elected.

But what would we do for county, district and state conventions and platforms under such a system?

As far as the county and district conventions are concerned, we have but little use for them as it is. And the state convention has by law practically been shorn of every function save that of declaiming the result of the primary election and selecting the executive committee. Its platforms are no longer binding save and except when they reiterate demands for the enactment of laws approved of by primary vote, so that there is really nothing that it may do now that could not just as well be attended to by a state executive committee chosen by the people in the combined primary and general election.

BANKING REFORM.

Government discrimination in designating national banks as depositories for federal funds is gradually being corrected under a change of policy by Secretary MacVeagh, who is increasing the number of depositories without augmenting the aggregate of the government deposits, we learn from a Washington dispatch. This, the dispatch goes on to say, is being done especially in small cities. In towns with only two banks the secretary is dividing the government deposits between them to avoid discrimination. In the large cities the advantages enjoyed by the depositories are regarded as negligible. Secretary MacVeagh also has designated as government depositories a large number of non-depository national banks with which the department of justice and the postoffice department have been depositing funds for many years without the Washington authorities knowing it.

It is very nice and proper for the secretary to thus arrange that all the banks shall have an even break in the matter of holding government funds. But we cannot see where the general public is helped any. The perpetual struggle between the money-handling institutions and the money users will not be checked in the least. The farmer, the merchant or the manufacturer will not find it any easier to obtain needed credit.

We know, of course, that it is not within Secretary MacVeagh's power to change the prevailing system of scattering bank reserves, which helps to produce disaster at the very time when confidence is most needed, and which, under ordinary circumstances automatically serves to draw money away from where it should be loosened and allowed to freely flow into every avenue of human activity and productivity. The need of banking reform is so urgent, however, that we consider it opportune to introduce the subject on the slightest provocation.

Too much importance is attached to individual money reserves under our banking system. The chief reserves of foreign banks are the secondary reserves—the liquid resources—which can be quickly sold or rediscounted at the central reserve reservoir. These secondary reserves are largely discounts based on goods soon to be consumed. The discounts are highly liquid, because the consumption of the goods liquidates the loans.

In other countries the banks meet financial storms by paying cash freely and loaning freely. In times of stress our banks stop paying cash and stop loaning, intensifying distress.

Banking Reform, the periodical issued by the National Citizens' league for the promotion of a sound banking system, points out that "abroad, the rate on commercial paper is lower than the rate on paper secured by speculative collateral. This is as it should be. Commercial paper in Europe in the form of bankers' bills has an international market, and is the highest class of security. But in the United States, owing to the lack of a system of rediscount, the rate on such paper is higher than the rate for stock exchange loans on investment collateral—stocks and bonds."

Our system of reserve requirements should be so revised that the chief function of a reserve will not be to demonstrate the solidity of the bank holding it. The National Citizens' league insists that there should be such a re-arrangement of the credit organization that no drain upon reserve money will come as the result of internal commercial activity.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS.

The Waco News urges that Texas bonds should be bought by Texas people, a suggestion which is not bad. There are many financiers in Texas who could profitably invest in bonds of cities, counties and other political divisions, and if this were done, Texas would be independent of Wall street. Of course, it is necessary to go East for money to promote big enterprises occasionally, but there are many bonds which could be handled by Texans, and some of them are. The interest paid to Eastern capitalists amounts to a great sum each year, and much of it could be kept in Texas. But we are so accustomed to depend on the East that we seldom think of looking about for a home investor.—San Antonio Express.

Our idea is that Texas bonds should be issued in convenient denominations and sold over city hall and court house counters to people of small means. We want to popularize them as investments and have the money they earn distributed among the citizens of the communities issuing them.

We have no objection to their being purchased by Texas financiers, of course, but we think it would be better to have them pass into general circulation as much as possible and we are confident that if an effort were made to attract the attention of the public to their desirability as savings absorbers, no difficulty would be experienced in disposing of them to the many who are on the lookout for a means of safely investing little piles of hard-earned dollars.

AN EXPRESSION OF GRATITUDE.

To the thousands of good people throughout the state who, unsolicited, gave me their generous and loyal support in my race for congressman-at-large, I have nothing but a heart full of gratitude. I submitted to them my name, announced my platform, and without soliciting their votes, either by letter or by once leaving Houston to meet and mingle with them, they responded so generously, so loyally, that the tribute paid me in their votes swells my heart with pride and fills my heart with a gratitude that will be as lasting as it is sincere.

I have been repeatedly asked why I did not send out campaign literature and make a canvass of the state. These questions are easily answered: To do either would require a campaign fund, and I had none.

It is customary among defeated candidates to say they feel no disappointment and have no stings. I can not say as much and tell the truth; still my disappointment finds its full measure of relief in the splendid testimonial the people bestowed on me at the polls, and my stings, inflicted by those who should have been my friends, may teach me a lesson that will be of much value to me in the future.

Again expressing my heartfelt gratitude to my many friends and supporters, I am, and always expect to be, Yours to command,

New York, Aug. 15.—Mrs. William Jay Schieffelin, the society leader and social worker, through her experiences in the slums of New York, learned of and was horrified at the corrupt conditions existing in certain municipal

Officer Prater Welds Two Hearts Together, Reuniting Man and Wife

Playing the role of the peacemaker, Night Chief Bill Prater witnessed a happy reconciliation at the city hall last night between Will Miles and his wife, and probably cheated the courts out of a divorce fee. Miles and his wife walked off, leading their three-year-old child between them after giving the officer their solemn promise to try and "live happily ever after."

It was a neat piece of work—the officer's job. He saw what was probably the last opportunity to bring two hearts together again and jumped at it. He smiled at the result of his labors.

Affairs between Miles and his wife reached what appeared to be a crisis when they quarreled at their home, and the husband grabbed their three-year-old daughter, a really beautiful child, and ran off with her. He came to town and was on Franklin street when the neighbors caught up with him and pleaded with him. The wife was close behind them.

Officer Barnard arrested Miles and took him to police headquarters. A charge of disturbing the peace was preferred against him. His wife, accompanied by the child, called at the station later. Miles was then in jail.

Night Chief Prater gave both of them a confidential talk. He heard the wife's story, and then went to consult the husband. Then he went back to the wife, and traveled back and forth between the two until he had successfully closed negotiations for a reunion.

"Go back home," he told Miles. "There are lots of sorry people in this world, but you are not one of them. Your wife loves you, and you had better take advantage of it. Go home, I say, and live right. Get you some chickens and make you a real home. You've got a little girl there, too, who wants you."

And the officer talked to the couple for several minutes. He was the cupid, for a lock smith could not have done a better job than he did in mending those two hearts together. The man and wife seemed happy as they walked off.

Adopted Boy's Cheers Big Impetus to Akin

Possibly when Roy Akin is doing some of those pirouetting stunts around third base he is thinking of a little 6-year-old, yellow-haired boy who calls him "Papa," and who has known no other. Possibly that may have something to do with Akin's ability as a ball player, for, sitting in the grand stand, the little fellow watches every play and is as interested in the proceedings as the most ardent fan. His interest, however, centers at third base, or wherever Akin happens to be. Many have been his cries of delight when "papa" makes a hit or slides to a base.

Deserted three years ago by his mother, who, leaving a Katy train at Hillsboro, left him in a seat occupied by W. E. Hester, another ball player, the child was brought to Waco. Hester and Akin were at that time playing with Houston, and Hester, being an unmarried man, was unable to care for the little one. A tender chord in Akin was struck, however, and he took the baby. His mother was later located, and consented to Mr. and Mrs. Akin adopting the boy, who now bears the name of Roy Ben Akin and lives with Mr. and Mrs. Akin at 1825 South Fifth street. He will be started in school this fall, Akin said yesterday.

Mrs. Akin and Roy Ben accompany Akin on some of the road trips made by the Navigators, and when Akin made the unassisted triple play at Houston this summer, nothing would suffice his teammates and a number of fans but that a picture of the third baseman and the adopted child be taken. Akin consented, and prizes it very highly.

When the child was first deserted by his mother, who lived in north Texas,

WACO TAKES OPENER 5-0

DALLAS MAKES THREATENING START, BUT TAFF PROVES TOO EFFECTIVE.

M'LAURIN CLEARS BASES

Triple in Third Nets Three Runs. Double-Header to Be Played This Afternoon.

By Whoopie.

Here's hoping Duguey makes an error at the opening of every game. If it proves no more disastrous than one did yesterday and imbues him with the idea of knocking the cover off the ball. The error part happened in the opening game with Dallas, which Waco won by a 5 to 0 shutout score, but the cover was still on the ball when it landed for a safe hit in center, and was still in service when Akin sacrificed and Beck followed with a hit to center. Duguey scoring. Whether it was the same ball or another bat failed to make any difference with McLaurin in the third inning, for, with the bases full, he hit to center for a triple, and scored on Crichlow's single which followed. Bad judgment on the part of Clemens, playing in center, was responsible for the triple. He first ran up on it, and could not beat it back to the proper position in time.

Taff Again Strong.

It may just as well be said now as any time, but that man Taff is some ball pitcher. Yesterday, according to the official score, he pitched a one-hit game, Forsythe getting a single to center in the fourth. Ens in the fifth tapped out a stiff one to Beck at short that had the earmarks of a hit, but the scorer decided it was not a hit and credited Beck with an error. Taff was in two bad holes, one in the first and again in the fifth, when the bases filled up on him. He "fizz" to the occasion, however, and in the fifth struck out three men, leaving three on bases. Gibson, first up, was hit by a pitched ball. Clemens was passed, Mullins struck out, Duncan struck out, Ens knocked the ball to Beck, who made an error, and Kellerman struck out. During the game Taff struck out eight and issued four passes. Ten hits were made off Mullins, on the heaving mound for Dallas. He struck out only two and passed four. Aside from the first and third, Mullins got away with his game and was never in danger, thanks to some swift pegging by his backstop, Gibson, who made nifty throws to second and third. Gibson got four assists for his work in throwing to the middle bags.

Duguey Scores in First.

Duguey, first man up for Waco, hit to center and reached second on the error of Tullios in center, who played there for two and one-third innings. Tullios booted the ball. Akin sacrificed Duguey to third, from where he scored on Beck's hit to center. Rennard fanned and Wohleben knocked a pop. In the second, a double put Waco out of the running, but in the third something popped, notwithstanding that Duguey, first up, fanned. Akin followed with a single to left, which went whizzing by Lawrence at third. Manager Cavender of Dallas, thinking a change might help some, benched Lawrence, sent Tullios, who had been playing center, to third, and put Clemens in the field. It did about as much good as walking around a chair when engaged in playing the great American game, for Beck, next up, hit another hot one past third that landed safely in left field. Rennard then hit a grounder to Ens at second, who retired Beck there. Akin going to third. Wohleben was passed, and then, with the bases full, McLaurin, with an idea of relieving the congestion and allowing himself a berth on first at least, hit to center. Tullios ran up, then ran back, the ball ran ahead of him, and McLaurin reached third. Akin, Rennard and Wohleben scoring. Crichlow then hit to left field, scoring McLaurin, but was caught trying to steal second while Carson was at bat.

Only three hits were made by Waco in the last five innings of the eight times at bat, and the two passes that were given failed to net another run. Outfield flies and the pegging of Gibson called a halt on operations. Beck, in the seventh, being the only man to attempt to reach third, and he was caught on a ball thrown by Gibson.

Dallas' Start Threatening.

"There goes your old ball game," shouted a Dallas man on the coaching line in the first of the first inning, after Duncan, first up, had been passed, and reached second when Duguey dropped an easy fly hit by Ens, who reached first. Kellerman sacrificed and Forsythe then hit the ball to Rennard, who threw Duncan out at the plate. Ens reaching third. A double steal was then attempted, but the ball was relayed back from second so fast by Duguey that Carson had to wait for Ens to reach home to tag him. Taff then got down to business and struck out eight men in the next eight innings, three in the fifth, when the "war clouds" began forming.

Two feature catches served to relieve the monotony. Akin at third making one and McLaurin at the other. Standing on right, Akin instinctively threw up his right, ungloved hand when Forsythe's drive headed in his direction. The ball stuck. Directly following, Wilson knocked a foul fly, which McLaurin got after a hard run, when he showed as much concentration in getting under the ball as a small boy does in twisting a rabbit out of a hollow log. He reached there just in time, and Beck, running from short-stop, was also there. McLaurin beat him.

A double-header will be played this afternoon, the first game being called at 3 o'clock.

CHICAGO CUBS BEAT NEW YORK

RUBE MARQUARD POUNDED FROM MOUND IN FIFTH INNING BATTING FEST.

GAME ENDS 5-1 SCORE

Crandall Replaces New York Twirler. Doubles Score for New York in Fourth Inning.

By The Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Chicago today won the opening game of the series from New York, 5 to 1, driving Marquard out of the box in the fifth and reducing New York's lead in the race for the National pennant to five games. It was estimated that 25,000 persons witnessed the contest. Thousands had to be denied admission to the park for lack of space.

Marquard's defeat came in the fifth inning. With Archer out, Richie singled and Sheppard walked. Merkle got Schultz' fly. Tinker drove a slashing double into the right field crowd, scoring Richie. Zimmerman sent a double to the same spot, bringing Sheppard and Tinker home. Leach singled to right, scoring Zimmerman and roused to second on Murray's throw to the plate. He took third on a wild pitch. Saier walked and Downs hit safe to right, scoring Leach and sending Saier to third. Manager McGraw then sent Crandall in to replace Marquard. Archer lifted a fly to Murray, ending the inning.

Doubles by Murray and Merkle scored New York's only run in the fourth inning. Murray opened the inning with a two-base hit and Merkle sent him home with a two-base drive into right field. Merkle went to third on Herzog's sacrifice but was caught between third and home when Meyers drove the ball at Zimmerman. Meyers then attempted to reach second but Zimmerman relayed the ball to Downs, catching Meyers ten feet from the base.

Spectacular double-plays cut off New York's chance for scoring early in the game. In the second inning, with one out, Merkle was safe on Down's error. Herzog doubled, sending Merkle to third. Meyers was purposefully walked, filling the bases. Fletcher hit to Tinker, who caught Meyers at second. Downs shot the ball to Saier, getting Fletcher and retiring the side. Richie pitched splendid ball for Chicago, holding his opponents to six hits. Score:

NEWHOUSE GETTING BACK.

Fort Worth Record sporting page note:—But then often there's more to be seen at the park in Waco than just a baseball game, if Umpire Newhouse is to be believed. Newhouse always has shown class in his work here and has kept the players and crowd satisfied without truckling to either. Recently there was considerable unpleasantness after he umpired a game in the Geyer city, however, and if Newhouse is to be believed, he was not to blame for it. In a letter to a friend in Fort Worth he complains bitterly against the unfairness of the Waco fans and said it was impossible for a fair umpire to receive decent treatment there. The unpleasantness occurred after Newhouse put Akin out for three days for cursing him.

WOMAN DIES UNDER QUEER CIRCUMSTANCES

Miss Luttrell, Wealthy, Had Lived for Months on Candy and Crackers, Sleeping in Chair.

Special to The Morning News.

New York, Aug. 15.—Eugenia Luttrell, about 35 years old, said to be the daughter of the late State Senator George M. Luttrell, was found dead last night in a Broadway apartment house under queer circumstances. It is believed her death was due to organic trouble.

Although the woman was wealthy, with books indicating fortunes in real estate in Jacksonville, Fla., and this city, it is believed she had subsisted for months on a virtually no other food than milk, crackers and candy. Hundreds of milk bottles and countless cans and cracker boxes were found strewn about her apartment.

Although she had occupied the room for five months, Miss Luttrell never had had her furniture unpacked. She had not even put up a bed for herself. Attendants at the house said she had been content to sleep in a chair drawn up to a window. She had lived utterly alone and had no visitors since the death of her mother, six months ago.

AUSTIN CANNING FACTORY HAS PROSPEROUS YEAR

Special to The Morning News.
Austin, Aug. 15.—A local canning factory has just completed its run on peaches. A total of 1,250,000 cans of peaches were packed, about 500,000 cans of tomatoes and approximately 100 carloads of pickles. The same concern is packing chili and tamales and several kinds of meats, shipping to all parts of the country. It has a large irrigated farm on the Colorado river below this city, where it grows the cucumbers for its pickle factory and the chili pepper pods. Part of the farm is in cotton and it is being irrigated.

COTTON NERVOUS BUT SLIGHT ADVANCE MADE

COVERING BY SHORTS STARTS RISE—GINNERS' REPORT FAVORS BEARS.

By The Associated Press.

New York, Aug. 15.—The cotton market was somewhat less active today and fluctuations were nervous and irregular, with the close steady at a net advance of 3 to 8 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points. There seemed to be quite a falling off of orders around the ring, probably on the theory that the rally of about 50 points from the low level was sufficient for the time being.

Cables were fully up to expectations, however, and prices advanced quite sharply after the first few minutes of irregularity on covering by shorts and rather aggressive support attributed to southern and local bulls. October contracts sold up to 11.55c and December to 11.75c, 13 to 14 points net higher and fully $2 a bale above the low level of the week.

Realizing became heavier at this advance, while there appeared to be some renewed pressure from leading trade interests, and the market eased off quite sharply during the middle of the day. A bearish view of a mid-month report from the National Ginners' association, making the condition of the crop 77.5 on Aug. 10, compared with 77.6 on July 25.

The market steadied again in the later trading on bull support and covering by some of the people who had sold on the early advance. There was some selling here by Memphis people during the morning, which was supposed to be inspired by the national ginners' report indicating that the crop had held its own since the end of last month, which was evidently taken by local bears as suggesting that with favorable weather the September bureau might make a favorable comparison with last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

New Orleans, Aug. 15.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 points off compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were about as expected. The weather map was favorable and stimulated selling to some extent. Immediately after the call prices were 1 to 3 points down. Fresh buying set in, apparently being based on the belief that the market was over-sold. Private messages from Liverpool called the market there short. Buying orders steadily increased, and at the end of the first half hour prices were 11 points over yesterday's close. Selling increased on the advance and finally became general. Under the heavy offerings, prices crumbled away quickly. All support was withdrawn and there was no profit taking by shorts for a considerable period around the middle of the morning. Later scalping shorts bought covers to realize and the decline was checked, although the market maintained its easy undertone up to the noon hour. Selling was based to some extent on the weather forecast of unsettled weather for the western and fair weather for the eastern belt. At noon prices were 14 points under yesterday's close. The market steadied up in the afternoon and at 2 o'clock was 2 to 3 points over yesterday's close. The close was easy.

WHEAT PRICES UP CORN IS BEARISH

INDICATIONS ARE FOR LESSENED WHEAT RECEIPTS AND LARGER CORN SUPPLY.

By The Associated Press.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Wheat was largely influenced today by cash demand and closed steady, 3/4c to 1/2c higher. Last sales left September corn 3/4c to 1/2c lower and more distant futures 1/4c to 1/2c up. Oats finished 3/4c to 1/2c higher, while provisions were unchanged to 1/2c up.

Expected rain in the northwest, on top of recent wettings in the Kansas fields, with the suggestion of lessened receipts, stiffened wheat prices. Early advances, stimulated by these factors and stronger cables, were met by light foreign demands and weaker northwestern markets, causing a later falling off.

Prospects of larger receipts had a bearish effect on September corn, and evening-up trades predominated.

Export demand of good proportions and lighter arrivals gave oats a firm undertone. Provisions showed trading within conservative limits and prices held through the day, closing steady near the top, unchanged to 1/2c higher. Final figures for October products were: Pork $18.25, or 12 1/2c higher; lard $11.05, 10c up, and ribs $10.92 1/2, 2 1/2c higher.
